Hi Evonne,

Hope you had a great Thanksgiving.

I called you earlier today to discuss this situation but ended up leaving a message on your cell phone, I think (I called your work number). I just wanted to let you know so the VM message didn't get lost. My reason for calling was to discuss the response to Rachel. I've sent that forward so we may not need to speak today unless there's something that you have.

Thanks,

Cam

Hi Evonne,

I've seen messages about glyphosate before but not like this one. I'm looping in Rachel Ricciardi (formerly a Skills Marketplace detailee earlier this year in ORBA) who is part of the OPP international team, which is housed in the OPP External Relations Division. I know that this Division regularly receives correspondence regarding glyphosate/RoundUp. Perhaps we can all chat about how each office can weigh in on this response.

Rachel, right now, this is for your awareness, not action, until we can develop a response strategy.

Thanks,

Cam

Any suggestions for how to respond? I want to be compassionate, but I don't want to affirm any incorrect assumptions in this message (and it seems there may be a few). Thanks.

Dear EPA Representative:

Maybe what I am about to say does not pertain to the affairs of your department. However, I am trying to find out the right people to talk to about a tragedy that took place in Brazil.

One month ago tomorrow, my brother-in-law was killed in Sao Paulo (interior), Brazil after handling a bag of ROUNDUP from Monsanto manufacturing company. His death has been very hard and a tragedy to the family, since he dedicated his whole life to working in agriculture (his passion), and was very strong physically, but ended up dying suddenly after handling an empty bag of glyphosate pesticide which keeps entering the country.

I have come across an article within the website of a law firm in the United States stating that the pesticide Glyphosate C3 H8 NO5 P had been forbidden entry into the country of Brazil. However, it did and now my family is suffering due to this tremendous loss of their father and husband.

As the EPA agency office in Brazil, please help us to prevent tragedies such as this from happening again.

I am a Brazilian/American citizen working hard to make the world a better place for all creatures. Let's work together for that purpose. Please, please help us. Let's not allow that to happen again.

I have also contacted a TV station in Brazil and they are willing to do a report on this ROUNDUP unfortunate situation culminating with my brother-in-law's unnecessary death.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.
